“What clients are saying about Brian Moore Executive Search.....”

"Brian Moore has been the most professional recruitment | executive search consultant I have ever had the pleasure of working with. He came recommended from a number of my peers and definitely delivered! I would recommend him for any executive hire in the Global QSR | Fast Casual market place and any other market he is willing to work with you in. He is also not scared to be honest and tell you what isn't his area of expertise."

Stuart Cook, ex-CEO at Zambrero Group (Australia)

"I've worked with Brian and he is a professional and 'gets it'. Very down to earth and understands exactly what your needs are and quick to react and respond. I continue to work with him."

Steven Pizziol, ex-Vice President - International, Asia Pacific Region at Domino's Pizza International (Hong Kong)

"Brian was hired to assist in a hiring effort that required the ability to find great talent (4 critical hires) in a very short period of time. Brian met that challenge and was a pleasure to work with. He followed up on details, managed candidates well and provided great insights - all while managing a client (me) on the other side of the world. I would highly recommend Brian and hope to work with him again."

Christine Deputy, ex-Chief Human Resources Officer at Dunkin' Brands (USA)

"I have had the pleasure of working with Brian over the last three years as he recruited me for my role in Indonesia. I also worked with Brian to recruit a new CMO for my team. The recruitment industry is an industry that in my view is full of very unprofessional people that have no right to recruit professionals when they can not even manage themselves. Brian is the polar opposite of this. I rate him as one of the very best recruiters that I have worked with personally and on international searches for new team members to join my team. Brian has excellent connections that assist him in finding the right candidates. Brian manages the process very professionally. His communication between both parties is timely and on message. Brian's follow up post placement is outstanding . He cares about getting the right candidate, how the candidate is performing and how the company is performing. This is so very rare in the the recruitment industry. I highly recommend Brian. He is an outstanding representative for your company when you require new talent. You can always be assured of success when Brian is involved with a quality outcome."

Pat McMichael, ex-CEO Domino's Pizza (Indonesia)

"Thumbs up! Brian is an effective and efficient consultant; based on his many years of experience in Asia and the industry, he matches the needs of his clients with candidate executives with right strengths and desires. My experiences with him were pleasant and productive."

Insoo Cho, ex-President & CEO at Outback Steakhouse (Korea)

"I have met dozens of recruiters over the course of my career and, in an industry that attracts those who hide behind a fragile persona of hubris and bravado, it's rare to find the real deal. Brian's knowledge of the QSR and Fast Casual world of dining is second to none. Whether keeping abreast of people movement within the industry, new technologies and practices or industry developments in general, his knowledge is unique, focussed and deliberate. It's rare to find someone with a clearly defined value system who is also adept at identifying the opportunity for both the employer and employee, producing the best possible results for both parties. As a consequence, he has earned not just my respect, but also my admiration, Brian Moore is a sincere, high performing executive search consultant – in short he's the real deal!"

Leslie Bailey - Managing Director, Ruby Tuesday (Hong Kong)
